

Reflect on your own experiences with children, families, and colleagues. If you are an supervisor, administrator, or adult educator, how might you use these questions and activities to help other adults reflect on their experiences?

Consider the Child's Point of View

In our efforts to keep children safe, we often give them the impression we don't think they are capable. Consider how children might feel about themselves when they are allowed to use special things from the adult world.

Look at the photos on the website in this Key.

What details do you see that reveal how the child might be feeling?

How might this child describe the way the adults view her or him?
